THE BOOKMAN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY of ENGLISH LITERATURE

By THOMAS SECCOMBE and W. ROBERTSON NICOLL

M.A., Balliol College, Oxford, Formerly Assistant Editor "Dictionary of National Biography." M.A., LL.D., Editor of "The Bookman."

THE BOOKMAN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE will present in an attractive form a complete survey of our literature from Caxton to the Present Time. While the work has been especially designed to meet the requirements of the general reader, and to provide him with the cheapest and most attractive charge for the voyage of literary discovery, the publishers are confident that the names of the Authors will be accepted as a guarantee that the work is fully abreast of the most recent literary criticism. ¶ THE BOOKMAN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE will contain over fifty full-page Photogravure Plates, forming a delightful gallery of English Authors, in addition to other illustrations of interest and importance. The aim throughout has been to adorn a scholarly text with good paper, print, and pictures, and to enhance in every way the value of the work as an authoritative guide to the history of our literature.

'TRY A PIPE OF MY TOBACCO" is a remark constantly made by smokers of Player's "Navy" Mixture, as with pride and confidence they introduce to their friends the tobacco that has given them so much pleasure—that has saved them so much money, and that has earned for them the gratitude of those smokers whom they have taught to follow their example.

The Eternal Religion. By J. Brierley, B.A. (J. Clarke and Co., 6s.) Dickens's Cricket on the Hearth, Christmas Carols, The Chimes. Illustrated by C. E. Brock. (Dent, 2s. 6d. net each.)

FICTION.

The Amethyst Box. By Anna Katharine Green. (Chatto and Windus, 6s.) This ingenious and fascinating collection of detective stories deals with the loss of an amethyst box containing deadly poison, and the sudden death of an aunt who is a cold and repellent woman should be read by all repellent aunts.

The Love Child. By Thomas Bailey Clegg. (Lane, 6s.) This study of a woman placed in an extremely awkward situation by the lack of "marriage lines" is well worth reading. Mr. Clegg seems to us to side, perhaps, a little too much with the world.

The Red Reaper. By John A. Steuart. (Hodder and Stoughton, 6s.) Leslie, Montrose, Argyll, and dozens of characters famous in history play their part in this stirring romance, which ends with the execution of Montrose at Holyrood.

Loveday. By L. T. Meade. (Hodder and Stoughton, 6s.) Mrs. Meade will go down to history as the indefatigable constructor of three score domestic novels, of which Loveday, the last to appear, is as well constructed and entertaining as any of its forerunners.

A Specimen Spinster. By Kate Westlake Yeigh. (Unwin, 6s.) "It's a wise person who can touch a bruised heart without hurting," says Mary Wogg, the heroine of the tale, who on page 308 bears testimony to the healing powers of love in a style that no cold, brief extract here can do justice to.

Lone Marie. By W. E. Norris. (Macmillan, 6s.) Mr. Norris takes us further afield than his novels are wont to do in this clever and cosmopolitan study of the intercourse of English and Americans in the Italian Riviera.

The Motor Cracksman. By Charles Carey. (Unwin, 6s.) Mr. Charles Carey is certainly up to date. The cracksman of the story as well as the hero are always more or less listening for the chug-chug of the starting automobile with which their criminal exploits are invariably associated.

The Rise of Philip Barrett. By David Lyall. (James Clarke, 6s.) The taskmaster of Hanwell, Mr. Armitage, warns us all that he has built his hopes on a frail foundation. "I see now that I have made an idol of intellect, of human achievement, despising that gold which God himself implants in humble hearts."

MISCELLANEOUS.

On Taking a House. By W. Beach Thomas. (Edward Arnold, 1s. net.)

The Management of Babies. By Mrs. Leonard Hill. (Edward Arnold, 1s. net.)

EPPS'S THE ORIGINAL COCOA, AND A SPECIALITY,

being distinguished from all others by its invigorating nutritious qualities and its delicious flavour. This Cocoa, containing as it does all the substance of the Cocoa Nib, maintains its leading position after three-quarters of a Century as

THE BEST FORM OF COCOA FOR EVERY-DAY USE. COCOA

On Collecting Miniatures, Enamels, and Jewellery. By Robert Edward. (Edward Arnold, 1s. net.)

Common Ailments and Their Treatment. By M. H. Naylor. (Edward Arnold, 1s. net.) Little books containing practical instructions on different subjects of more or less general interest.

Magic Casements. By Arthur Shearly Cripps. (Duckworth, 2s. 6d. net.) Sketches of English life in the past.

Commonsense Cookery for English Households. By Colonel A. Kenney-Herbert ("Wyvern"). (Arnold, 6s. net.) Revised and enlarged edition.

English History in Napoleon's Note-Books. Edited by H. F. Hall. (Dent, 7s. 6d. net.) A translation of notes on English history made by Napoleon in his youth.

Kokoro. Hints and Echoes of Japanese Inner Life. By Lafcadio Hearn. Popular edition. (Gay and Bird, 3s. 6d. net.)

A Woman of the World. An American Woman's Counsel to Other People's Sons and Daughters. By Ella Wheeler Wilcox. (Cassell, 6s.) Letters of advice to different representative and fictitious Americans.

The Gods of Pegana. By Lord Dunsany. With illustrations in photogravures. By S. H. Sime. (Elkin Mathews, 5s. net.) Mythological stories with interesting illustrations in the manner of Beardsley.

MESSRS. CHAS. STILES AND CO. announce that, after many years of intimate connection with the sale of the well-known "Bord" piano, they have acquired a controlling interest in the Paris firm of makers. All the old traditions in style and construction which have given the piano its well-deserved reputation will be carefully maintained. The old staff is retained in its entirety, so that there will be no break in continuity. But, in addition, a capable English manager will be on the spot, whose care it will be to study the English taste in details and to keep an open mind to all genuine improvements.
